PEACE TREATY WILL MAKE MIKADO "ASIATIC KAISER" SAYS SHERMAN

DESCRIBES SHANTUNG AWARD BY PEACE DELEGATES AS "SUPERLATIVE TREACHERY OF MODERN TIMES

WILSON TO SEE EVERY SENATOR

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 17—"The peace treaty makes Japan so strong that the Mikado will in time become the Asiatic Kaiser challenging the whole world," Senator Sherman of Illinos declared in a speech in the Senate this afternoon in denouncing the acts leading up to and the actual signing of the peace treaty and league of nations covenant. He further denounced the act as "the superlative treachery of modern times."

"Japan in time," he warned, "would gradually dissolve the Chinese nation and menace the whole world."

Continuing he said: "The United States has either been overreached by more capable diplomats or there has been an indifference on the part of these recreants in the performance of their duty."

"China", he pointed out, "was the first of neutral nations to respond to President Wilson's good offices in the beginning of hostilities, and now this friendly nation is facing another step in the dismemberment of her country. The United States joins with those who plunder her territory and steal her people. This at a time when the United States is preaching justice and universal brotherhood to all mankind."

"When the time comes that Japan will launch out on her world domineering program the United States will have to appeal to China for her help on the side of right. Can she do it in the face of the Shantung award?"

By L. C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, July 17—Opponents of the league of nations are ready to start hostilities after one day of rest. Senator Sherman will attack vigorously the Shantung settlement under the treaty. League foes have in preparation a number of resolutions growing out of objections already stated. One the outgrowth of a speech by Lafolette will demand to know why Costa Rica was not permitted to sign the treaty. Another by Borah on the Shantung affair.

Much interest is seen at the capital over Wilson's move in inviting the opposing senators to the White House conferences It is regarded as a shrewd political move and it is not expected that any senator will refuse the invitation.

The Committee on Foreign Relations is continuing its careful reading and digest of the text of the peace treat today.

The House will again make an effort to pass the agricultural bill with the rider carrying a repeal of the daylight saving law If the Republicans again pass the measure it will amount to a dare to the President to veto again.

WASHINGTON, July 17—A number of Republican senators were to call at the White House today in response to the invitation of Prsident Wilson to discuss the peace treaty and league of nations. Friends of the President said he would discuss freely and without reserve his reasons for accepting the various terms and willingly answer any question plied to him.

Senator Owens, of Oklahoma, McCumber of North Dakota Jones, of Washington, Coit, of Rhode Island and Nelson of Minnesota are the senators who will see the President today.

WASHINGTON, July 17—President Wilson will continue his conference with Republican senators until every member has been seen and until he has had the opportunity of discussing the peace treaty and the league of nations with every opponent. He plans to schedule the conferences for one hour each and with the senators in groups. Ordinarily, presidential conferences last only fifteen minutes.

ICE CREAM AND SODA TAX SOON TO BE REPEALED

WASHINGTON, July 17—Repeal of the tax on soda water and ice cream will have immediate consideration of Congress as soon as the prohibition question is out of the way. The Republican steering committee today decided on this course of action.

SPROUL SIGNS APPROPRIATION BILL

HARRISBURG, PA., July 17—Governor Sproul today signed the General Appropriation bill granting the sum of $43,199,556.80 for the conduct of the state government for the two fiscal years beginning June 1st, 1919.

IN JAIL CHARGED WITH COMMITTING HENIOUS CRIME

Walter C. Johnson, a young married man of DuBois, was brought to Clearfield and lodged in jail by Constable Joseph Leslie, of Union township, charged with a dastardly and most heinous crime.

Johnson was arrested at Rockton last evening on a warrant issued by Squire S. B. Welty on information made by Miss Mary Korb, a highly respected young woman who lives near Home Camp.

On Sunday afternoon last Miss Korb, who is 26 years old, attended Sunday School at Rockton, and at the conclusion of the services started to walk home. She was traveling the township road and when about midway between Home Camp and Rockton, a man, whom she alleges to be Johnson, passed her in an automobile. When the auto reached the top of Hummell hill, a particularly lonely spot, it stopped and the driver got out and appeared to be tinkering with the engine as the young lady approached.

Upon reaching the car the man asked Miss Korb if she wanted a ride and when she refused and attempted to pass he suddenly seized her and despite her screams and struggles carried her off the road into the bushes and ciminally assaulted her, holding her prisoner for some little time.

Miss Korb succeeded in making her way to her home and the alarm was given. Inquiry was made along the way and suspicion pointed to Johnson who had been recognized along the road.

Constable Leslie was notified and kept night and day watch for the returning berry pickers. Last night his vigil was rewarded and Johnson was taken into custody. He was returning in his car to DuBois accompanied by his wife and another couple, with their load of berries.

The accused man was taken before Miss Korb who positively identified him and he was taken before 'Squire Velty for a hearing. The 'Squire promptly remanded him to jail in default of bail.

Johnson is a young man of Swedish parentage, 22 years of age and weighs 203 pounds. He was married here in Clearfield on April 1st, 1919. His victim is a frail little woman and one of the most highly respected young ladies in that section. She was terribly injured in the struggle with the brute and has been under the care of a physician ever since the attack, being unable to leave her bed.

Johnson denies that he is the guilty man in spite of the positive identification of the victim of the assault.

LIABLE TO $1000 FINE

Some damphool who never reads the newspapers and evidently acquired his education by coming into town and reading the signs in front of the different business places, is liable for a fine of $1000 when Mayor Chase and his police force succeed in rounding him up today.

This paragon of abysmal ignorance proceeded around and about town last night and nailed 100 Chutauqua signs on as many telephone poles in direct violation of the Borough Ordinance made and provided in such cases and for such Rubes. The ordinance prescribes a $10 fine for each and every offense. Hence the hundred century total.

CRAWFORD SAYS NEAR BEER IS VIOLATION

No Excuse Under Law For Sale Of Beverage Containing Any Percentage of Alcohol

NEAR BEER SALOONS CLOSING

PITTSBURGH, July 17, 1919.—United States Attorney R. L. Crawford yesterday announced that no beer containing alcohol may be sold in the district covered by the jurisdiction of the court of which he is an officer Not even beer containing less than one-half of one per cent., or any other percentage of alcohol, is to be permitted and if the saloon keepers of Pittsburgh and vicinity receive and dispense the brew which the Pittsburgh Brewing Company announced on Tuesday it is going to distribute they will be prosecuted.

"I'm going down and send my barkeepers home," W. F. Hammel, the Liberty street cafe owner announced yesterday after a call on Mr Crawford at his office. Other liquor men who saw the district attorney came to a similar decision. Some others seemed to have an advance "hunch" as to what was coming or else thought that "near beer" would not attract enough custom to be worth selling as they did not open their places yesterday.

Rule is Misunderstood

In declaring his intention to prosecute those who manufacture or sell beer containing alcohol, Mr. Crawford said that if the brewers or others had come to the conclusion that they were entitled to sell such a product under the opinion handed down by Judge W H. S. Thompson on Monday they had misinterpreted the opinion. Neither the opinion nor the law, Judge Crawford holds, authorize any such course Continuing, he said:

"The war-time prohibition act is a measure aiming at the conservation of food products. No grains are to be manufactured into a beverage of any alcoholic content whatever. This is the law and this is what the court held The reference to the ruling of the revenue department concerning beer of less than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol is merely an incident and I expect to proceed in the matter according to my understanding of the opinion and the law. When evidence is brought to me that beer containing any alcohol whatever is manufactured or is being sold prosecutions will be entered just as has been done upon the evidence heretofore secured.

In the matter of prosecutions upon evidence heretofore secured it will be the duty of this office to proceed. I anticipate, however, that the courts will show leniency to the offenders What is wanted is that the law shall be observed. Now that the court has declared the law, however, there will be no excuse for further offending.

First Authentic Cable Telling Of Austrian Conditions Rec'd.

Bing Intimates That Hungarians Ready To Unite Against World For Soviet Republic Aims

ALLIED ARMY COULD DEFEAT THEM

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first authentic story of actual conditions in Austria-Hungary. Edward Bing was in Budapest when the soviet revolution took place and was the only American correspondent who was able to make news filings from that place. He has just arrived in Vienna and cables the following authentic story from that point, now the hot point of contention and the city where the Reds hope to establish the headquarters of their Central Europe Empire.

By EDWARD BING
United Press Staff Correspondent
Copyright 1919 by United Press

VIENNA, July 17th, 1919—The Bolshevik Hungary, like a wounded lion at bay stands ready to battle the whole world in defense of a Soviet Repulbic, yet a small Allid army would be able to crush her with ease.

After personally witnessing the whole course of the revolution I am able to state this with authority.

The food situation is critical. Supplies are low and thousands are hungry and on the verge of starvation.

Should the expected Allied offensive take place it would rally all the forces of Hungary to their Bolshevik standard but there is another way in which the Bolshevik program may be defeated. The Hungarian Red and the Hungarian White, representing the radical and conservative elements, are ready to combat the Roumanian and the Czech but they balk when it comes to fighting their own blood. The Whites are numericall stronger and a terrific struggle will likely put the Whites in the ascendency and banish Bolshevism.

ONE KILLED IN TROLLEY SMASH AT PUNXSUTAWNEY

DUBOIS, July 17.—As the result of a head-on collision between two street cars of the Jefferson Traction company last evening about 5 o'clock at Elk Run one man was killed and another seriously injured.

The dead:

The injured:

Dominick Rabbi, badly cut and bruised, but condition not serious.

The two cars that came together were in the inter-urban service, one coming form Big Run to Punxsutawney, and the other running from Punxsutawney to Reynoldsville.

It is stated that Kolodijik, who works at Onondago, was riding on the front platofrm of the car from Big Run at the time the two crashed. Rabbi was also a passenger on this car.

The two cars, it is stated, came together with great force, both of them having attained good speed. It is alged that when the Big Run crew struck the block at Oak Run that it was dark. They proceeded to take the block and started on in towards Punxsutawney. They had only gone a short distance when the other car proceeding from Punxsutawney came in sight around a turn. The motormen of both cars jumped and escaped injury. Kolodijik, sitting on the steps, did not realize what was wrong and had no opportunity to escape. He was caught when the two cars came together and his body was badly mangled. His head was cracked open, one leg was broken, and his body generally was smashed. The injured man was quite badly cut and bruised but at the Adrian hospital where he was taken, it was stated last evening that his condition was not serious. Several of the passengers suffered minor injuries, but none of sufficient seriousness to justify hospital treatment.

A coroner's inquest to probe the cause of the accident was held this morning at 10 o'clock by Coroner Mills.

11 MEASURES APPROVED BY SPROUL

HARRISBURG, July 16.—Statewide appointment of mercantile appraisers and control over publication of the mercantile appraisers' list is given to Auditor General Charles A. Snyder, through the approval today by Gov. Sproul of the Dawson bill. The measure amends the act of May 2, 1899. It provides that the Auditor General shall publish the appraisers' list in not less than two nor more than three newspapers in each county, with one newspaper representing the minority party of the two principal parties of the county.

The Governor also signed the two Senate bills, which appropriate $1,000,000 for road purposes in second class townships. The other bill provides for a system of rewards to second class townships for the construction and improvement of township roads and bridges.

The McConnell bill approved gives the board of commissioners of public grounds and buildings the right to acquire property needed for state institutions by proceedings in eminent domain.

By the approval of the Hough bill soldiers, sailors and marines necessarily absent and unable to be assessed or pay usual poll taxes are to be permitted to vote. A county tax of 10 cents is necessary to be paid to the County Treasurer to qualify the service men as voters. Violations are punishable with a fine of $100 or imprisonment not to exceed 90 days.

ANOTHER STEAMER IN DISTRESS

NEW YORK CITY, July 17.—U. S. Naval Radio stations along the coast today picked up messages from the United States Shipping Board vessel Scampic saying she was in distress off the Jersey coast. No details of the trouble were given. Messages were also picked up at Sandy Hook but the name of the vessel could not be deciphered. It is possible that these messages were also from the Scampic.

TWO AIRPLANES FALL VICTIMS TO HEAVY WIND

Many Clearfield people have motored out to the farm of Boyd Woolridge on the hills of Bradford township, just back of Barrett Station, to view the huge airplane which crashed to earth in front of the Woolridge farmhouse in the furious thunder storm which swept over this section Monday afternoon.

The plane, which was being driven empty across country to Cleveland for a load of mail, ran into the storm shortly after leaving Bellefonte, but the pilot thinking it to be merely a summer thunder gust proceeded upon his way.

The mail plane, which was driven by a pilot familiar with the route, was also guide for a new man in this field who was following closely behind the first machine. The storm increased in violence to such an extent when the Clearfield county line was reached that after flying a few miles in it the planes became separated and not knowing the way in the fog and rain the new man was forced to land on the farm of A. C. Gearhart near Bigler. He succeeded in getting to earth without injury and when the skies cleared arose again and made his way back to Bellefone.

The lead plane stuck to it until after passing Woodland when the storm became so severe it was forced to land despite its pilot. The big machine came hurtling through the air close to the ground and the Woolridge family hearing a noise approaching across their farm which sounded like forty automobiles on the rampage at full speed rushed to the door of their home just in time to see the mechanical bird crash to earth almost in their front yard.

They rushed out into the rain and finding the pilot semi-conscious in his seat soon hauled him out of the wreckage into the house. He had his nose badly skinned and was bumped and bruised about the back. The machine was wrecked in the drop and it is a question whether it can ever be utilized for flying again.

WILLARD BACKERS PAY WITH DINNER AT THE DIMELING

A number of local devotees of the "art fistikus" dined in state at The Dimeling last evening at 7.45. The dining was a direct result of the changing of world's champions at Toledo on July 4th last. The fellows who though the Kansas cowboy would continue to reign supplied the feed for the Dempsey followers.

Those in the party were W. J. Beahan, Joe Tony, Guy Barger, A. J. Rowe, L. E. Fleming, J. T. Starr, W. E. Spackman, J. S. Summers, T. J. Norris, A. Smith, A. R. Jones, H. L. Krebs, J. F. Haley, R. D. Pearce, C. W. Lentz, J. P. Flanigan, A. D. Bingman, John Cosgrove, R. Wollis, S. M. Hall, W. R. Fargo and M. T. Bowman.

They all say now that they knew Dempsey was going to win, so we are therefore not allowd to say who settled for the feed.

Robley D. Pearce, who was recently knocked out of the bachelor class by old Kid Cupid, winner of many ring (18 karat) battles, was unanimously chosen toastmaster and added much to the pleasure of the gathering by his admirable handling of the position.

Some of the special stunts put on after the "inner man" had been given his quietus were a few character impersonations of Woodrow Wilson by his local double, T. J. Norris.

Jack Starr, former "fly weight" champion of Turkey Hill, gave some reminiscences of early days on Little Clearfield Creek, while Fargo enlarged upon the days when he and his brother Wheeler met all comers on the east bank of the Dutch Gap Canal now known as Fourth street sewer.

Joe Toney recited a poem in which the merits of his "Big Brother Sy—vest," the terror of the "toe of the boot," were modestly recounted.

Jimmy Flanagan sang the "Wearin' of the Green" accompanied on the Irish bag pipes by John Cosgrove, and as the music sort of disrupted the gathering Toastmaster Pearce declared the meeting out. It was some time; I'll say so.

The theory that a person who has had the misfortune to lose on or more limbs is likely to live longer than if he had not lost them, would seem to be borne out by facts. The reason is that the heart normally has to carry the blood to the limbs, and that the fewer limbs a man possesses the less work the heart has to perform, and the longer, therefore, it lasts.

FOOD PRICES

Arbitrary and heartless increases of food prices should be met with stern resistance through government agencies. The war is over, but manifestly profiteering is not and Congress will be justified in running down those responsible for unnecessarily adding to the burdens of the people through the high cost of living.

It ought to be possible to probe the prices of food stuffs from the time they leave the soil until they get to the ultimate consumer. Every step of the way should be made clear so that responsibility may be placed where it belongs. Under present conditions blame often rests upon entirely innocent people. If the manufacturer is innocent he can easily make this plain through a statement of his prices to those between him and the consumer. There must be found some reasonable way for turning on the light, to the end that public suspicion of rank profiteering may be confirmed or disproved.

With the ending of the war it was generally understood that there would be a gradual reduction of the high cost of living, but in many cases the cost has increased and without apparent reason. This is especially true of food stuffs and it would appear that the administration at Washington, especially the War Department, must explain the failure to distribute meats and canned goods amounting to $121,000,000 that have been stored in the great military warehouses for months. Not only has the government lost through this policy, but also the consumers who have failed to get the benefit of reduced cost that would have followed the distribution among the people of this enormous hoard.

The American people have contributed in every way to the winning of the war without protest and with a patriotic devotion to a great cause that entitles them to every consideration at the hands of their government. If it was necessary to fix prices and restrain profiteering during the war it would appear to be just as necessary under present conditions.

What has caused general protest in Harrisburg has been unreasonable differences between manufacturing cost and retail prices in a number of instances—as high as one hundred per cent. in some cases. Restaurant proprietors insist that they must pay twice as much for melons as was charged a year ago. So it goes clear down the line and the people who complain of arbitrary and excessive prices are determined to find out whether there is any justification or excuse.

In the midst of a rich agricutural region it is inconcievable that we should be paying in mid-summer winter prices for vegetables and eggs and fruits that are brought here in large quantities for sale in the open markets. There is bound to be an uprising of the consumer and he has a right to know whether the added burdens are necssary or are simply the result of greed and selfishness.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

KILLED BIG RATTLER

Officer Carlson and Mose Robinson were out on the mountain on a motor trip yesterday afternoon and ran across a huge rattlesnake on the Penfield road this side of the Moose Creek reservoir.

They stopped the machine and got out to "crush the head of the serpent". Mose said he would get a club while Carlson started after the snake with a rock. A well directed heave of the stone fixed the snake and then Carlson looked about for Mose and the promised club. He finally discovered him on a convenient pine tree twenty feet from the ground and shinning on up like a pine squirrel. When told the snake was killed Mose started to slowly slide back to earth and when Carlson asked him what he was doing up that tree Mose replied with a sheepish grin that he was going up after a dead limb about forty feet from the ground. He would have been that high up in another minute, Carlson says, and he wont lie.

ST. ANDREW MEN'S PICNIC ARRANGEMENTS PROGRESSING

The arrangements for the St. Andrews men's picnic are shaping up to the point where it points to a successful outing.

Cards have been mailed to the men asking replies as to whether they will attend and these cards, while they are beginning to come back, should be mailed at once so that McCarty, who has charge of the eats, will know how many hungry men to provide for. Webb Shillingford has been selected for master of ceremonies in the entertainment line and that assures a good time for everyone who attends.

FIRST DIVISION IS COMMENDED

American Expeditionary Forces
Office of the Commander-in-Chief
France, March 26, 1919.

Maj. Gen. Edward F. McGlachlin, Jr.,
Commanding 1st Division,
American E. F.

My dear General McClachlin:

To the officers and men of the 1st Division, I wish to express my compliments upon their excellent appearance at the inspection and review on March 14th at Montabauer. The high morale of all ranks and the condition of the artillery and transportation were what one might expect to find in a command with such a splendid fighting record. The 1st Division has the listinction of having been the first combatant unit to arrive in France and the first to enter the fighting line. From that time until the present its work has been marked by a high state of excellence and efficiency.

After serving in the Sommerviller and Ansauville Sectors the division entered the line near Montdidier, and on May 28th took Cantigny. This attack may be considered as the beginning of American offensive operations, and its success had much to do with the creation of the splendid spirit thereafter displayed by American troops. In the Aisne-Marne offensive, the division participated in some of the most desperate fighting of the entire war, and helped to insure the success of the Allied attack. During the early part of August the division moved to the Saizerais sector, and shortly after took part in the St. Mihiel operation, making a deep advance through the Rupt de Madt across the Vigneulles-St. Benoid road to Hatton-Chattel. In the Meuse-Argonne battle the division was twice thrown into the line, on October 1st, at which time it pushed forward in spite of heavy resistance, and on November 5th, when, after a march of 20 kilometers to reach the jumping-off line, it attacked the enemy and marched on Sedan.

Since the signing of the armistice the 1st Division, as a part of the Army of Occupation, has had the honor of safeguarding the results of its victories, and for its conduct in this work I have only praise and commendation. In view of the above record, each man in the division should feel an especial pride in its accomplishments, and I want all ranks to know of my appreciation of the achievements which stand to their credit and of the admiration in which they are held by their fellows throughout the American Expeditionary Forces.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN J. PERSHING.

We received the above commendatory statement regarding the now justly famous First Division by Gen. Pershing from First Class Private Sam Harris, of Clearfield, who is with the Army of Occupation along the Rhine.

Take Salts To Flush Kidneys

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy o have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is coudy, full of sediment; the channels ofte nget irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urineus waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acd of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has ben used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kdney and bladder diseases.

FOOD PRICES

Arbitrary and heartless increases of food prices should be met with stern resistance through government agencies. The war is over, but manifestly profiteering is not and Congress will be justified in running down those responsible for unnecessarily adding to the burdens of the people through the high cost of living.

It ought to be possible to probe the prices of food stuffs from the time they leave the soil until they get to the ultimate consumer. Every step of the way should be made clear so that responsibility may be placed where it belongs. Under present conditions blame often rests upon entirely innocent people. If the manufacturer is innocent he can easily make this plain through a statement of his prices to those between him and the consumer. There must be found some reasonable way for turning on the light, to the end that public suspicion of rank profiteering may be confirmed or disproved.

With the ending of the war it was generally understood that there would be a gradual reduction of the high cost of living, but in many cases the cost has increased and without apparent reason. This is especially true of food stuffs and it would appear that the administration at Washington, especially the War Department, must explain the failure to distribute meats and canned goods amounting to $121,000,000 that have been stored in the great military warehouses for months. Not only has the government lost through this policy, but also the consumers who have failed to get the benefit of reduced cost that would have followed the distribution among the people of this enormous hoard.

The American people have contributed in every way to the winning of the war without protest and with a patriotic devotion to a great cause that entitles them to every consideration at the hands of their government. If it was necessary to fix prices and restrain profiteering during the war it would appear to be just as necessary under present conditions.

What has caused general protest in Harrisburg has been unreasonable differences between manufacturing cost and retail prices in a number of instances—as high as one hundred per cent. in some cases. Restaurant proprietors insist that they must pay twice as much for melons as was charged a year ago. So it goes clear down the line and the people who complain of arbitrary and excessive prices are determined to find out whether there is any justification or excuse.

In the midst of a rich agricutural region it is inconcievable that we should be paying in mid-summer winter prices for vegetables and eggs and fruits that are brought here in large quantities for sale in the open markets. There is bound to be an uprising of the consumer and he has a right to know whether the added burdens are necssary or are simply the result of greed and selfishness.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

KILLED BIG RATTLER

Officer Carlson and Mose Robinson were out on the mountain on a motor trip yesterday afternoon and ran across a huge rattlesnake on the Penfield road this side of the Moose Creek reservoir.

They stopped the machine and got out to "crush the head of the serpent". Mose said he would get a club while Carlson started after the snake with a rock. A well directed heave of the stone fixed the snake and then Carlson looked about for Mose and the promised club. He finally discovered him on a convenient pine tree twenty feet from the ground and shinning on up like a pine squirrel. When told the snake was killed Mose started to slowly slide back to earth and when Carlson asked him what he was doing up that tree Mose replied with a sheepish grin that he was going up after a dead limb about forty feet from the ground. He would have been that high up in another minute, Carlson says, and he wont lie.

Cards have been mailed to the men asking replies as to whether they will attend and these cards, while they are beginning to come back, should be mailed at once so that McCarty, who has charge of the eats, will know how many hungry men to provide for. # FIRST DIVISION IS COMMENDED

Office of the Commander-in-Chief
France, March 26, 1919.

Maj. Gen. Edward F. McGlachlin, Jr.,
Commanding 1st Division,
American E. F.

My dear General McGlachlin:

To the officers and men of the 1st Division, I wish to express my compliments upon their excellent appearance at the inspection and review on March 14th at Montabauer. The high morale of all ranks and the condition of the artillery and transportation were what one might expect to find in a command with such a splendid fighting record. The 1st Division has the distinction of having been the first combatant unit to arrive in France and the first to enter the fighting line. From that time until the present its work has been marked by a high state of excellence and efficiency.

After serving in the Sommerviller and Ansauville Sectors the division entered the line near Montdidier, and on May 28th took Cantigny. This attack may be considered as the beginning of American offensive operations, and its success had much to do with the creation of the splendid spirit thereafter displayed by American troops. In the Aisne-Marne offensive, the division participated in some of the most desperate fighting of the entire war, and helped to insure the success of the Allied attack. During the early part of August the division moved to the Saizerais sector, and shortly after took part in the St. Mihiel operation, making a deep advance through the Rupt de Madt across the Vigneulles-St. Benoid road to Hatton-Chattel. In the Meuse-Argonne battle the division was twice thrown into the line, on October 1st, at which time it pushed forward in spite of heavy resistance, and on November 5th, when, after a march of 20 kilometers to reach the jumping-off line, it attacked the enemy and marched on Sedan.

Since the signing of the armistice the 1st Division, as a part of the ar of safeguarding the results of its Army of Occupation, has had the honvictories, and for its conduct in this work I have only praise and commendation. In view of the above record, each man in the division should feel an especial pride in its accomplishments, and I want all ranks to know of my appreciation of the achievements which stand to their credit and of the admiration in which they are held by their fellows throughout the American Expeditionary Forces.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN J. PERSHING.

We received the above commendatory statement regarding the now justly famous First Division by Gen. Pershing from First Class Private Sam Harris, of Clearfield, who is with the Army of Occupation along the Rhine.

Mrs. A. J. Loga nand son Bob have returned home after visiting relatives in Ohio.

Sunday School class No. 6 of the West Side M. E. church will hold a cake and ice cream social Friday evening, July 18, in the basement of the church. Everybody invited. Everybody come. J14-5tc

Take Salts To Flush Kidneys

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy o have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels ofte nget irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body s urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts as made from the acd of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has ben used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kdney and bladder diseases.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BIDDLE BIRDSALL'S FRIEND.

"A good long time ago," said Daddy, "I told you the story of Biddle Birdsall. He was a cat, as you may remember, and he belonged to a little girl named Gertrude who had called him Biddle when she was very young and could not say Kitty.

"Now, Biddle Birdsall has grown older, and so has Gertrude, and while Biddle Birdsall still lives in the same house, Gertrude has to be away almost all of the time at a boarding school in the winter and at a summer camp in the summer.

"But since the time I told you the story of Biddle and Gertrude, a little cousin has come to live near the house where Biddle is.

"Strangely enough her name is Kitty, And Kitty, the little girl, and Biddle the big kitty-cat, are great, great friends.

"Kitty loved Biddle the moment she saw him. She loved his soft gray fur, his funny green eyes, and she loved to hear the tinkle of the little bells which jingled from his collar. These bells were to let the birds know that Biddle was coming, so they could get away in time, for cats move so softly when they are about to prey on little birds.

"Kitty always called to Biddle when she went to her aunt's home, where Biddle lived; but one day she thought she would walk in very quietly.

What do you think happened? Biddle knew her footsteps. He knew his friend Kitty from all the other children who came to the house where he lived, and many children would come to play there where there were all sorts of wonderful things for children.

"Yes, Biddle knew Kitty's footsteps from all the others, and he arose from his comfy couch, gave a little, funny sound, something between a tiny squeal and a purr and rushed out to meet Kitty.

"It was his little welcoming song to Kitty, and it was as though he had said: 'Oh, Kitty, I am so glad you've come. I love to sleep. I love to rest. I love to do nothing but lie near the fire in the winter, and in the sun in the spring and autumn, and in the shade when it is too broiling hot in the summer.

"'I love to eat and I love to drink milk. I care for comforts and a fine home and fine food and fine cushions.

"'But I like you better than any of these things, Kitty, and so I always get up to greet you. You don't see me doing that to anyone else, do you Kitty?'

"Of course Kitty was delighted when Biddle got up to greet her every single time she went to her aunt's house. And he never made a mistake. Never, not once, did he get up and make a mistake and give that little, curious sound of greeting to anyone else except Kitty. He could hear her step when he was way inside the house and couldn't see her at all.

"And when she didn't come up to the house in quite a good long time, he would purr to be let outside, and would get very close to the door and let everyone know just what he wanted.

"Then he would hurry down to Kitty's house and sit on her doorstep, waiting until she would come out.

"She would fondle him and pet him. He would follow her when she played and when she walked. When she was reading a story book he would sit quite near her and go to sleep, or else keep quite quiet, taking little naps, but blinking from time to time to see if Kitty was still interested in her book.

"'I don't care to read at all,' Biddle thought, 'but I do care about Kitty, and if she cares to read silly words, I am happy as long as I am by her.'

"So, tonight," continued Daddy, "I am telling you another chapter in the life of Biddle Birdsall. Perhaps some future time I will tell you still another. But I think we ought to call this chapter by this name, 'Biddle Birdsall's Friend.'"

"That would be a good name for it," said Nick.

"Indeed it would," agreed Nancy.

"To think Biddle always knew her step," said Nick. "That seems wonderful to me."

"And to think how he greeted Kitty," added Nancy.

"Yes," said Daddy, "and only for Kitty will Biddle ever make that little sound of something which to him means:

"'I am so glad to see you, Kitty.'"

THE BOLSHEVIK AND PROPAGANDA

By FRANK J. TAYLOR

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 17—"These appeals to the toiling masses the world over are not meant for foreign consumption. They are written for the Russian proletariat."

That is the reply made to the United Press correspondent in Moscow, following the criticism that appeals made to the American workman by wireless from Moscow too eloquent for American readers. The bolshevik author of the proclamation in question had asked for some constructive criticism.

The bolshevik foreign office spends its time writing propaganda to the world. The employees of the foreign office are specialists in agitation, which the foreign office spreads by wireless. Most of it never sees publication outside Russia, probably because the anti-bolshevik governments have found this material so biased that they refused to transmit it.

This does not seem to daunt the bolshevik foreign office, which, under Tchitcherin, the red-bearded funny little man who heads the department, turns out reams of appeals to the toiling masses daily. Tchitcherin harbors an ambition that he will some day provoke a world-wide revolution but realizes the odds are against him. He is convinced of the importance of keeping up these appeals, and printing them for the simple-minded Russian, who feels that he is leading the world to salvation. The Russian is led to believe that he is about three pumps ahead of the band-wagon.

The foreign office is located up a dingy flight of stairs in the back floor of the once fine hotel Metropole. When confiscations were going on, the live wires got the better carpeted rooms, but Tchitcherin is happy despite this shabby deal played on him by his colleagues as long as he can grind out eloquent propaganda.

The Russian people are fed daily through the press with these appeals and manifests and proclamations. Some of them are amusing. The correspondent obtained some of the most eloquent ones directed at Americans to bring home. The bolsheviks must have thought differently later, for the "appeals to the American proletariat" were confiscaetd at the border, along with other propaganda which the foreign office heaps on visitors.

According to "Tavarish" Tchitcherin —everyone is "tavarish," or comrade in Russia—he has asked for peace seven times during the last eight months. These have been official requests to governments.

In April, when the Bullitt mission made up of Americans, visited soviet Russia to find out conditions and learn what the bolsheviks would do, the sovietist say they repeated their peace proposals. The bolsheviks are bitterly disappointed that this mission brought no results.

According to Tchitcherin, the bolsheviks offered to assume responsibility for payment of all the debts of the old Russian government to the Entente. They agreed to make good losses sustained by Entente citizens during the revolution.

In addition, they offered trade and industrial concessions, and are willing to go even farther. They are ready to revise some of their main bolshevik platforms to get peace, if the bolshevik party can remain in power. The bolsheviks will not resign.

With rebuff the only result of his appeals, the little man with the red hair and whiskers, in an old shabby, baggy suit and a shawl around his neck, is never discouraged and continues to draft new appeals, some of them really intended for the outside world, but most of them to bolster up the courage of the Russian people.

EXPRESS SNAKE MADE HARMLESS BY THE COURIER

We thought we had a perfectly good snake story this morning when we looked over our exchange copy of the DuBois Express and we studiously clipped almost a whole column of blood curdling reading to inflict on our readers tonight. The story started out as follows:

"Armed with sufficient poison to kill several people and lying within striking distance of thousands of pedestrains who have passed up and down West Long avenue near Pete's Pullman weiner stand, a huge snake has been terrorizing the people of that section for several weeks.

But it will do so no more. Efforts to exterminate it were successful early this afternoon when Lee Goldstein, DuBois' general utility man who has had a busy day today, caught the reptile off its guard and killed it. When stretched to its full length and examined it was found to be a deadly water-moccasin, five feet three inches in length. * * *"

Then along came the morning Courier and blasted the whole story. Their version of the affair was as follows:

"After destroying about two square yards of perfectly good cement walk and consuming several hours time Lee Goldstein succeeded yesterday in digging forth a perfectly harmless garter snake that had taken up its abode under the pavement in front of the Martin millinery store. The reptile measured exactly five feet. There was a large crowd attracted to scene of the hunt, but they kept their distance the ladies especially being timid about getting very close. Had the snake been of a poisonous nature, the precautions were perfectly proper, but in view of the harmlessness of the reptile the furore aroused was somewhat amusing."

The Express has probably not recovered its proper equilibrium since our national transition from "wet" to "dry". During the month of June the Express saw a bigger and more dangerous reptile in prohibition and warned men, women and children to shun the terrors of "dry" conditions. Prohibition also proved to be a harmless reptile.

FOR BETTER ROADS

MILLIONS GOING INTO ROADS

Millions of dollars will be expended in highway construction and bridge work and maintenance by the states of the central West during the present year, according to data recently compiled by highway authorities.

Colorado has 51 miles of highways under construction at a cost of $300,000; 91 miles ready for contract to cost $360,000, and 30 miles and three bridges contemplated, to cost $350,000.

Maintenance on 4,000 miles will amount to about $500,000, while local road and bridge expenditures will amount to about $2,200,000.

Idaho has 87 miles, costing $720,000, under contract; 45 bridges, costing $425,000, ready for contract, and about $1,800,000 worth of additional work is contemplated during the season.

Iowa will expend $15,000,000 on the road system of the state, of which about $11,000,000 will be for road and bridge construction.

Missouri has 666 miles under contract, costing $1,785,000; 888 miles, costing $3,104,000, ready for contract, and about $2,000,000 additional construction contemplated. Local road and bridge expenditures in the state will amount to about $7,000,000.

Nebraska has 173 miles, costing $431,000, under contract; 145 miles, costing $550,000, ready for contract, and about 610 miles, estimated at $1,310,000, contemplated. Local road and bridge expenditures will amount to about $3,000,000.

Nevada has four miles, costing $54,666, under contract; 102 miles costing $657,412, ready for contract; 126 miles, costing $523,000, contemplated. Local expenditures on maintenance will amount to $600,000.

Oklahoma has 128 miles, including 80 bridges, costing $1,300,000, under contract. Additional construction of 165 miles, costing $2,500,000, contemplated.

These amounts will be suplemented by increased federal aid appropriations and later, it is hoped, by national construction of main trunk lines under the supervision of a federal highway commission, as provided for in the Townsend bill which will come up for consideration by the next congress.

SAVING OF IMPROVED ROADS

The report of the joint congressional committee which investigated highway economics in 1914 shows that a saving of 8 cents per ton mile can be effected in transportation costs when a road is lifted from the dirt to the durable class. This does not take into account increased real estate valuation or social advantages resulting from the improvement.

Build Roads Now.

If roads are a good thing, why not build them immediately, instead of waiting and suffering inconveniences for years to come, because it should be remembered that we are not saving any money by acting in such a manner.

Big Change in Sentiment.

People are apparently ready and willing to spend huge sums for roads where a few years ago it would have been impossible to secure even a small appropriation for this purpose.

An ingenious device is being experimented with which will do away with a great deal of the danger encountered by aviators in making a landing especially at night. It consists of a small bulb attached to a wire hanging from the aeroplane. When the bulb touches the ground an electric connection immediately switches on a small light in front of the pilot who knows then that he is within so many feet of the ground and can act accordingly and so save his machine from disaster.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

A bevy of Camp Fire girls have established themselves in a camp in a field along the river near the farm house of Hugh M. Irwin. They seem to be having a fine time and enjoying their outing as only a bunch of lassies can.

Two automobiles collided on river street yesterday about noon. Superintendent John Blake left the tannery in his car for his home and when near the home of John Dale he was met by Sam Toney of Clearfield, driving a heavy car. His car swerved to the side of the road occupied by Mr. Blake's car and struck it endwise, breaking the engine and otherwise injuring the car as to make it useless until sent to the shop for repairs. None of the occupants of either car received any injury any more than a general shaking up. Just what was the cause of the Toney car leaving its side of the track could not be learned at this writing.

Placards are posted throughout the borough asking for $2000 for the purpose of making Labor Day a grand bowling success and securing amusements for that day. Curwensville people are liberal in donating money for anything that will benefit the town and its people, and from what The Progress man could glean from committeemen this amount will soon be raised, and all arrangements completed for giving the people a good time on the first day of September.

Walter E. Montz arrived home yesterday after an absence of three years and better. When he left Curwensville he enlisted in the regular army and was assigned to the 2d Field Artillery. His battery was billited to the Philippine Islands where the young sodier spent three years, during which time he saw many peculiar people and their mode of living. His regiment was returned to France where he spent two months and a week or so ago was discharged from the service.

Ronald Dunsmore, youngest son of Alex and Mrs. Dunsmore arrived home from army service yesterday. The young man left here about two years ago and enlisted in the 18th Regiment. This regiment was split up after it reached camp and the company to which Dunsmore was attached was drafted into the 111th Regiment. The young man saw considerable service over the seas, and at one time was reported as being killed in one of the engagements, but later was found in one of the hospitals.

Blair Gates, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Gates, this place, was operated upon successfully in the Ridgway hospital yesterday. This is his third operation. He resides in Ridgway and is employed in one of the hardware stores of that young city.

Relatives were notified yesterday that Mrs. Ned Bloom was operated on in one of the Pittsburgh hospitals and passed the trying ordeal successfully. Mrs. Bloom before her marriage was Margaret Fleming, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fleming, who reside at Eastvu.

A fight between two sons of Italy took place down on the flat Sunday, the trouble arose over the pasturing of cows where they had no business to be feeding. The disturbance between the men was of such a character that it drew a crowd. Both were arrested and fined for their Sunday frivolity.

A black snake which measured something over six feet in length was killed along the trainroad which leads from the brickyard to the clay mines. His snakeship was crossing over the track and was run over by the dinkey engine.

The Fullerton garage has placed a 674-gallon gasoline tank on the outside of the sidewalk close to the building.

The foundation walls for the Gates new brick store building on Filbert street is almost completed and will be ready for the brick men by the first of the week.

Mrs. G. C. Jenkins and daughter and Miss Margaret Snyder spent a portion of yesterday among the Clearfield stores.

Mrs. Harry Gray, Misses Elizabeth and Harriet Crouch, of Tyrone, and Joseph Crouch, lately returned from army service in Paris, France, were Curwensville visitors yesterday. The Crouch's are children of the late Dr. D. O. Crouch, who was one of the pioneer physicians of Curwensville.

Jerry Hockman, residing on Anderson street, has just completed a two room and pantry addition to his home, which adds dollars to the house appearance. Carpenter Howard McClosky did the work, which is an insurance that the work was well and artistically done.

So far as the Progress man has been able to ascertain three persons have been elected to teach in the Curwensville public schools the coming term: Mr. Ralph Mays, Miss Catherine Porter, of Clearfield, and Miss Collins. Mr. W. F. Weaver has been re-elected to the janitorship of the First and Second Ward school buildings at a salary of $100 per month. Bids will be asked for the janitorship of the South Side building.

A start has been made in the right direction for giving Curwensville people, and everybody else who wants to have a good time, a chance to have it on Labor Day. More than half a hundred men have been assigned on the different committees, and that alone ought to be a sufficient guarantee for out of town people that what sports and amusements are advertised to take place will be there and ready to do their stunt to amuse and entertain. There is no reason on earth that we can see why Curwensville should not have at least one big, gala day in the year. Clearfield and DuBois and a number of smaller towns have already had their jollification, and no doubt would be willing to come to Curwensvile on Labor Day and see what is offered them to spend the day pleasantly and profitably. Let the committees get to work at once, altho there is considerable time yet before Labor Day come around. Take time by the forelock, and have everything in tip-top shape a week before the day set. Do not wait until the last week to get to work, but dig into it now, and then everybody can be assured that you mean business and that you are determined to give Curwensville visitors, as well as our own people, a glorious good time and entertain them so royally that they will want to come back again when we advertise another big day.

The swinging bridge across the river near the finishing tannery is in a most dilapidated and dangerous condition. The men, and there are quite a number of them, who use it in going to and from work, have kept this bridge in repair from money taken out of their private funds for several years, but since the bridge walk has become in such a dangerous shape that a lady cannot cross it at all, they do not feel disposed to again bear the burden of the entire expense of reflooring and other repairs. It would not be more than an act of justice for the borough authorities to go 50-50 with Eastvu people and put this much used bridge in shape for travel, without danger from receiving a broken neck or being pitched into the river while traversing it.

Pretty and Practical Bathing Suits

We are apt to think that things practical in any line of apparel are sure to be commonplace and unattractive and that things pretty are likely to be unpractical. But the designers of bathing suits have finely succeeded in turning out beach clothes that are both practical and pretty. # PEACE TREATY WILL MAKE MIKADO "ASIATIC KAISER" SAYS SHERMAN

WILSON TO SEE EVERY SENATOR

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 17—"The peace treaty makes Japan so strong that the Mikado will in time become the Asiatic Kaiser challenging the whole world," Senator Sherman of Illinos declared in a speech in the Senate this afternoon in denouncing the acts leading up to and the actual signing of the peace treaty and league of nations covenant. He further denounced the act as "the superlative treachery of modern times."

"Japan in time," he warned, "would gradually dissolve the Chinese nation and menace the whole world."

Continuing he said: "The United States has either been overreached by more capable diplomats or there has been an indifference on the part of these recreants in the performance of their duty."

"China", he pointed out, "was the first of neutral nations to respond to President Wilson's good offices in the beginning of hostilities, and now this friendly nation is facing another step in the dismemberment of her country. The United States joins with those who plunder her territory and steal her people. This at a time when the United States is preaching justice and universal brotherhood to all mankind."

"When the time comes that Japan will launch out on her world domineering program the United States will have to appeal to China for her help on the side of right. Can she do it in the face of the Shantung award?"

By L. C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, July 17—Opponents of the league of nations are ready to start hostilities after one day of rest. Senator Sherman will attack vigorously the Shantung settlement under the treaty. League foes have in preparation a number of resolutions growing out of objections already stated. One the outgrowth of a speech by Lafolette will demand to know why Costa Rica was not permitted to sign the treaty. Another by Borah on the Shantung affair.

Much interest is seen at the capital over Wilson's move in inviting the opposing senators to the White House conferences It is regarded as a shrewd political move and it is not expected that any senator will refuse the invitation.

The Committee on Foreign Relations is continuing its careful reading and digest of the text of the peace treat today.

The House will again make an effort to pass the agricultural bill with the rider carrying a repeal of the daylight saving law If the Republicans again pass the measure it will amount to a dare to the President to veto again.

WASHINGTON, July 17—A number of Republican senators were to call at the White House today in response to the invitation of Prsident Wilson to discuss the peace treaty and league of nations. Friends of the President said he would discuss freely and without reserve his reasons for accepting the various terms and willingly answer any question plied to him.

Senator Owens, of Oklahoma, McCumber of North Dakota Jones, of Washington, Coit, of Rhode Island and Nelson of Minnesota are the senators who will see the President today.

WASHINGTON, July 17—President Wilson will continue his conference with Republican senators until every member has been seen and until he has had the opportunity of discussing the peace treaty and the league of nations with every opponent. He plans to schedule the conferences for one hour each and with the senators in groups. Ordinarily, presidential conferences last only fifteen minutes.

ICE CREAM AND SODA TAX SOON TO BE REPEALED

WASHINGTON, July 17—Repeal of the tax on soda water and ice cream will have immediate consideration of Congress as soon as the prohibition question is out of the way. The Republican steering committee today decided on this course of action.

SPROUL SIGNS APPROPRIATION BILL

HARRISBURG, PA., July 17—Governor Sproul today signed the General Appropriation bill granting the sum of $43,199,556.80 for the conduct of the state government for the two fiscal years beginning June 1st, 1919.

IN JAIL CHARGED WITH COMMITTING HENIOUS CRIME

Walter C. Johnson, a young married man of DuBois, was brought to Clearfield and lodged in jail by Constable Joseph Leslie, of Union township, charged with a dastardly and most heinous crime.

Johnson was arrested at Rockton last evening on a warrant issued by Squire S. B. Welty on information made by Miss Mary Korb, a highly respected young woman who lives near Home Camp.

On Sunday afternoon last Miss Korb, who is 26 years old, attended Sunday School at Rockton, and at the conclusion of the services started to walk home. She was traveling the township road and when about midway between Home Camp and Rockton, a man, whom she alleges to be Johnson, passed her in an automobile. When the auto reached the top of Hummell hill, a particularly lonely spot, it stopped and the driver got out and appeared to be tinkering with the engine as the young lady approached.

Upon reaching the car the man asked Miss Korb if she wanted a ride and when she refused and attempted to pass he suddenly seized her and despite her screams and struggles carried her off the road into the bushes and ciminally assaulted her, holding her prisoner for some little time.

Miss Korb succeeded in making her way to her home and the alarm was given. Inquiry was made along the way and suspicion pointed to Johnson who had been recognized along the road.

Constable Leslie was notified and kept night and day watch for the returning berry pickers. Last night his vigil was rewarded and Johnson was taken into custody. He was returning in his car to DuBois accompanied by his wife and another couple, with their load of berries.

The accused man was taken before Miss Korb who positively identified him and he was taken before 'Squire Velty for a hearing. The 'Squire promptly remanded him to jail in default of bail.

Johnson is a young man of Swedish parentage, 22 years of age and weighs 203 pounds. He was married here in Clearfield on April 1st, 1919. His victim is a frail little woman and one of the most highly respected young ladies in that section. She was terribly injured in the struggle with the brute and has been under the care of a physician ever since the attack, being unable to leave her bed.

Johnson denies that he is the guilty man in spite of the positive identification of the victim of the assault.

LIABLE TO $1000 FINE

Some damphool who never reads the newspapers and evidently acquired his education by coming into town and reading the signs in front of the different business places, is liable for a fine of $1000 when Mayor Chase and his police force succeed in rounding him up today.

This paragon of abysmal ignorance proceeded around and about town last night and nailed 100 Chutauqua signs on as many telephone poles in direct violation of the Borough Ordinance made and provided in such cases and for such Rubes. The ordinance prescribes a $10 fine for each and every offense. Hence the hundred century total.

CRAWFORD SAYS NEAR BEER IS VIOLATION

NEAR BEER SALOONS CLOSING

PITTSBURGH, July 17, 1919.—United States Attorney R. L. Crawford yesterday announced that no beer containing alcohol may be sold in the district covered by the jurisdiction of the court of which he is an officer Not even beer containing less than one-half of one per cent., or any other percentage of alcohol, is to be permitted and if the saloon keepers of Pittsburgh and vicinity receive and dispense the brew which the Pittsburgh Brewing Company announced on Tuesday it is going to distribute they will be prosecuted.

"I'm going down and send my barkeepers home," W. F. Hammel, the Liberty street cafe owner announced yesterday after a call on Mr Crawford at his office. Other liquor men who saw the district attorney came to a similar decision. Some others seemed to have an advance "hunch" as to what was coming or else thought that "near beer" would not attract enough custom to be worth selling as they did not open their places yesterday.

Rule is Misunderstood

In declaring his intention to prosecute those who manufacture or sell beer containing alcohol, Mr. Crawford said that if the brewers or others had come to the conclusion that they were entitled to sell such a product under the opinion handed down by Judge W H. S. Thompson on Monday they had misinterpreted the opinion. Neither the opinion nor the law, Judge Crawford holds, authorize any such course Continuing, he said:

"The war-time prohibition act is a measure aiming at the conservation of food products. No grains are to be manufactured into a beverage of any alcoholic content whatever. This is the law and this is what the court held The reference to the ruling of the revenue department concerning beer of less than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol is merely an incident and I expect to proceed in the matter according to my understanding of the opinion and the law. When evidence is brought to me that beer containing any alcohol whatever is manufactured or is being sold prosecutions will be entered just as has been done upon the evidence heretofore secured.

In the matter of prosecutions upon evidence heretofore secured it will be the duty of this office to proceed. I anticipate, however, that the courts will show leniency to the offenders What is wanted is that the law shall be observed. Now that the court has declared the law, however, there will be no excuse for further offending.

First Authentic Cable Telling Of Austrian Conditions Rec'd.

ALLIED ARMY COULD DEFEAT THEM

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first authentic story of actual conditions in Austria-Hungary. Edward Bing was in Budapest when the soviet revolution took place and was the only American correspondent who was able to make news filings from that place. He has just arrived in Vienna and cables the following authentic story from that point, now the hot point of contention and the city where the Reds hope to establish the headquarters of their Central Europe Empire.

By EDWARD BING
United Press Staff Correspondent
Copyright 1919 by United Press

VIENNA, July 17th, 1919—The Bolshevik Hungary, like a wounded lion at bay stands ready to battle the whole world in defense of a Soviet Repulbic, yet a small Allid army would be able to crush her with ease.

After personally witnessing the whole course of the revolution I am able to state this with authority.

The food situation is critical. Supplies are low and thousands are hungry and on the verge of starvation.

Should the expected Allied offensive take place it would rally all the forces of Hungary to their Bolshevik standard but there is another way in which the Bolshevik program may be defeated. The Hungarian Red and the Hungarian White, representing the radical and conservative elements, are ready to combat the Roumanian and the Czech but they balk when it comes to fighting their own blood. The Whites are numericall stronger and a terrific struggle will likely put the Whites in the ascendency and banish Bolshevism.

ONE KILLED IN TROLLEY SMASH AT PUNXSUTAWNEY

DUBOIS, July 17.—As the result of a head-on collision between two street cars of the Jefferson Traction company last evening about 5 o'clock at Elk Run one man was killed and another seriously injured.

The dead:

The injured:

Dominick Rabbi, badly cut and bruised, but condition not serious.

The two cars that came together were in the inter-urban service, one coming form Big Run to Punxsutawney, and the other running from Punxsutawney to Reynoldsville.

It is stated that Kolodijik, who works at Onondago, was riding on the front platofrm of the car from Big Run at the time the two crashed. Rabbi was also a passenger on this car.

The two cars, it is stated, came together with great force, both of them having attained good speed. It is alged that when the Big Run crew struck the block at Oak Run that it was dark. They proceeded to take the block and started on in towards Punxsutawney. They had only gone a short distance when the other car proceeding from Punxsutawney came in sight around a turn. The motormen of both cars jumped and escaped injury. Kolodijik, sitting on the steps, did not realize what was wrong and had no opportunity to escape. He was caught when the two cars came together and his body was badly mangled. His head was cracked open, one leg was broken, and his body generally was smashed. The injured man was quite badly cut and bruised but at the Adrian hospital where he was taken, it was stated last evening that his condition was not serious. Several of the passengers suffered minor injuries, but none of sufficient seriousness to justify hospital treatment.

A coroner's inquest to probe the cause of the accident was held this morning at 10 o'clock by Coroner Mills.

11 MEASURES APPROVED BY SPROUL

HARRISBURG, July 16.—Statewide appointment of mercantile appraisers and control over publication of the mercantile appraisers' list is given to Auditor General Charles A. Snyder, through the approval today by Gov. Sproul of the Dawson bill. The measure amends the act of May 2, 1899. It provides that the Auditor General shall publish the appraisers' list in not less than two nor more than three newspapers in each county, with one newspaper representing the minority party of the two principal parties of the county.

The Governor also signed the two Senate bills, which appropriate $1,000,000 for road purposes in second class townships. The other bill provides for a system of rewards to second class townships for the construction and improvement of township roads and bridges.

The McConnell bill approved gives the board of commissioners of public grounds and buildings the right to acquire property needed for state institutions by proceedings in eminent domain.

By the approval of the Hough bill soldiers, sailors and marines necessarily absent and unable to be assessed or pay usual poll taxes are to be permitted to vote. A county tax of 10 cents is necessary to be paid to the County Treasurer to qualify the service men as voters. Violations are punishable with a fine of $100 or imprisonment not to exceed 90 days.

ANOTHER STEAMER IN DISTRESS

NEW YORK CITY, July 17.—U. S. Naval Radio stations along the coast today picked up messages from the United States Shipping Board vessel Scampic saying she was in distress off the Jersey coast. No details of the trouble were given. Messages were also picked up at Sandy Hook but the name of the vessel could not be deciphered. It is possible that these messages were also from the Scampic.

TWO AIRPLANES FALL VICTIMS TO HEAVY WIND

Many Clearfield people have motored out to the farm of Boyd Woolridge on the hills of Bradford township, just back of Barrett Station, to view the huge airplane which crashed to earth in front of the Woolridge farmhouse in the furious thunder storm which swept over this section Monday afternoon.

The plane, which was being driven empty across country to Cleveland for a load of mail, ran into the storm shortly after leaving Bellefonte, but the pilot thinking it to be merely a summer thunder gust proceeded upon his way.

The mail plane, which was driven by a pilot familiar with the route, was also guide for a new man in this field who was following closely behind the first machine. The storm increased in violence to such an extent when the Clearfield county line was reached that after flying a few miles in it the planes became separated and not knowing the way in the fog and rain the new man was forced to land on the farm of A. C. Gearhart near Bigler. He succeeded in getting to earth without injury and when the skies cleared arose again and made his way back to Bellefone.

The lead plane stuck to it until after passing Woodland when the storm became so severe it was forced to land despite its pilot. The big machine came hurtling through the air close to the ground and the Woolridge family hearing a noise approaching across their farm which sounded like forty automobiles on the rampage at full speed rushed to the door of their home just in time to see the mechanical bird crash to earth almost in their front yard.

They rushed out into the rain and finding the pilot semi-conscious in his seat soon hauled him out of the wreckage into the house. He had his nose badly skinned and was bumped and bruised about the back. The machine was wrecked in the drop and it is a question whether it can ever be utilized for flying again.

WILLARD BACKERS PAY WITH DINNER AT THE DIMELING

A number of local devotees of the "art fistikus" dined in state at The Dimeling last evening at 7.45. The dining was a direct result of the changing of world's champions at Toledo on July 4th last. The fellows who though the Kansas cowboy would continue to reign supplied the feed for the Dempsey followers.

Those in the party were W. J. Beahan, Joe Tony, Guy Barger, A. J. Rowe, L. E. Fleming, J. T. Starr, W. E. Spackman, J. S. Summers, T. J. Norris, A. Smith, A. R. Jones, H. L. Krebs, J. F. Haley, R. D. Pearce, C. W. Lentz, J. P. Flanigan, A. D. Bingman, John Cosgrove, R. Wollis, S. M. Hall, W. R. Fargo and M. T. Bowman.

They all say now that they knew Dempsey was going to win, so we are therefore not allowd to say who settled for the feed.

Robley D. Pearce, who was recently knocked out of the bachelor class by old Kid Cupid, winner of many ring (18 karat) battles, was unanimously chosen toastmaster and added much to the pleasure of the gathering by his admirable handling of the position.

Some of the special stunts put on after the "inner man" had been given his quietus were a few character impersonations of Woodrow Wilson by his local double, T. J. Norris.

Jack Starr, former "fly weight" champion of Turkey Hill, gave some reminiscences of early days on Little Clearfield Creek, while Fargo enlarged upon the days when he and his brother Wheeler met all comers on the east bank of the Dutch Gap Canal now known as Fourth street sewer.

Joe Toney recited a poem in which the merits of his "Big Brother Sy—vest," the terror of the "toe of the boot," were modestly recounted.

Jimmy Flanagan sang the "Wearin' of the Green" accompanied on the Irish bag pipes by John Cosgrove, and as the music sort of disrupted the gathering Toastmaster Pearce declared the meeting out. It was some time; I'll say so.

The theory that a person who has had the misfortune to lose on or more limbs is likely to live longer than if he had not lost them, would seem to be borne out by facts. The reason is that the heart normally has to carry the blood to the limbs, and that the fewer limbs a man possesses the less work the heart has to perform, and the longer, therefore, it lasts.

FOOD PRICES

Arbitrary and heartless increases of food prices should be met with stern resistance through government agencies. The war is over, but manifestly profiteering is not and Congress will be justified in running down those responsible for unnecessarily adding to the burdens of the people through the high cost of living.

It ought to be possible to probe the prices of food stuffs from the time they leave the soil until they get to the ultimate consumer. Every step of the way should be made clear so that responsibility may be placed where it belongs. Under present conditions blame often rests upon entirely innocent people. If the manufacturer is innocent he can easily make this plain through a statement of his prices to those between him and the consumer. There must be found some reasonable way for turning on the light, to the end that public suspicion of rank profiteering may be confirmed or disproved.

With the ending of the war it was generally understood that there would be a gradual reduction of the high cost of living, but in many cases the cost has increased and without apparent reason. This is especially true of food stuffs and it would appear that the administration at Washington, especially the War Department, must explain the failure to distribute meats and canned goods amounting to $121,000,000 that have been stored in the great military warehouses for months. Not only has the government lost through this policy, but also the consumers who have failed to get the benefit of reduced cost that would have followed the distribution among the people of this enormous hoard.

The American people have contributed in every way to the winning of the war without protest and with a patriotic devotion to a great cause that entitles them to every consideration at the hands of their government. If it was necessary to fix prices and restrain profiteering during the war it would appear to be just as necessary under present conditions.

What has caused general protest in Harrisburg has been unreasonable differences between manufacturing cost and retail prices in a number of instances—as high as one hundred per cent. in some cases. Restaurant proprietors insist that they must pay twice as much for melons as was charged a year ago. So it goes clear down the line and the people who complain of arbitrary and excessive prices are determined to find out whether there is any justification or excuse.

In the midst of a rich agricutural region it is inconcievable that we should be paying in mid-summer winter prices for vegetables and eggs and fruits that are brought here in large quantities for sale in the open markets. There is bound to be an uprising of the consumer and he has a right to know whether the added burdens are necssary or are simply the result of greed and selfishness.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

KILLED BIG RATTLER

Officer Carlson and Mose Robinson were out on the mountain on a motor trip yesterday afternoon and ran across a huge rattlesnake on the Penfield road this side of the Moose Creek reservoir.

They stopped the machine and got out to "crush the head of the serpent". Mose said he would get a club while Carlson started after the snake with a rock. A well directed heave of the stone fixed the snake and then Carlson looked about for Mose and the promised club. He finally discovered him on a convenient pine tree twenty feet from the ground and shinning on up like a pine squirrel. When told the snake was killed Mose started to slowly slide back to earth and when Carlson asked him what he was doing up that tree Mose replied with a sheepish grin that he was going up after a dead limb about forty feet from the ground. He would have been that high up in another minute, Carlson says, and he wont lie.

ST. ANDREW MEN'S PICNIC ARRANGEMENTS PROGRESSING

The arrangements for the St. Andrews men's picnic are shaping up to the point where it points to a successful outing.

Cards have been mailed to the men asking replies as to whether they will attend and these cards, while they are beginning to come back, should be mailed at once so that McCarty, who has charge of the eats, will know how many hungry men to provide for. Webb Shillingford has been selected for master of ceremonies in the entertainment line and that assures a good time for everyone who attends.

FIRST DIVISION IS COMMENDED

American Expeditionary Forces
Office of the Commander-in-Chief
France, March 26, 1919.

Maj. Gen. Edward F. McGlachlin, Jr.,
Commanding 1st Division,
American E. F.

My dear General McClachlin:

To the officers and men of the 1st Division, I wish to express my compliments upon their excellent appearance at the inspection and review on March 14th at Montabauer. The high morale of all ranks and the condition of the artillery and transportation were what one might expect to find in a command with such a splendid fighting record. The 1st Division has the listinction of having been the first combatant unit to arrive in France and the first to enter the fighting line. From that time until the present its work has been marked by a high state of excellence and efficiency.

After serving in the Sommerviller and Ansauville Sectors the division entered the line near Montdidier, and on May 28th took Cantigny. This attack may be considered as the beginning of American offensive operations, and its success had much to do with the creation of the splendid spirit thereafter displayed by American troops. In the Aisne-Marne offensive, the division participated in some of the most desperate fighting of the entire war, and helped to insure the success of the Allied attack. During the early part of August the division moved to the Saizerais sector, and shortly after took part in the St. Mihiel operation, making a deep advance through the Rupt de Madt across the Vigneulles-St. Benoid road to Hatton-Chattel. In the Meuse-Argonne battle the division was twice thrown into the line, on October 1st, at which time it pushed forward in spite of heavy resistance, and on November 5th, when, after a march of 20 kilometers to reach the jumping-off line, it attacked the enemy and marched on Sedan.

Since the signing of the armistice the 1st Division, as a part of the Army of Occupation, has had the honor of safeguarding the results of its victories, and for its conduct in this work I have only praise and commendation. In view of the above record, each man in the division should feel an especial pride in its accomplishments, and I want all ranks to know of my appreciation of the achievements which stand to their credit and of the admiration in which they are held by their fellows throughout the American Expeditionary Forces.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN J. PERSHING.

We received the above commendatory statement regarding the now justly famous First Division by Gen. Pershing from First Class Private Sam Harris, of Clearfield, who is with the Army of Occupation along the Rhine.

Mrs. A. J. Loga nand son Bob have returned home after visiting relatives in Ohio.

Take Salts To Flush Kidneys

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy o have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is coudy, full of sediment; the channels ofte nget irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urineus waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acd of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has ben used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kdney and bladder diseases.

FOOD PRICES

Arbitrary and heartless increases of food prices should be met with stern resistance through government agencies. The war is over, but manifestly profiteering is not and Congress will be justified in running down those responsible for unnecessarily adding to the burdens of the people through the high cost of living.

It ought to be possible to probe the prices of food stuffs from the time they leave the soil until they get to the ultimate consumer. Every step of the way should be made clear so that responsibility may be placed where it belongs. Under present conditions blame often rests upon entirely innocent people. If the manufacturer is innocent he can easily make this plain through a statement of his prices to those between him and the consumer. There must be found some reasonable way for turning on the light, to the end that public suspicion of rank profiteering may be confirmed or disproved.

With the ending of the war it was generally understood that there would be a gradual reduction of the high cost of living, but in many cases the cost has increased and without apparent reason. This is especially true of food stuffs and it would appear that the administration at Washington, especially the War Department, must explain the failure to distribute meats and canned goods amounting to $121,000,000 that have been stored in the great military warehouses for months. Not only has the government lost through this policy, but also the consumers who have failed to get the benefit of reduced cost that would have followed the distribution among the people of this enormous hoard.

The American people have contributed in every way to the winning of the war without protest and with a patriotic devotion to a great cause that entitles them to every consideration at the hands of their government. If it was necessary to fix prices and restrain profiteering during the war it would appear to be just as necessary under present conditions.

What has caused general protest in Harrisburg has been unreasonable differences between manufacturing cost and retail prices in a number of instances—as high as one hundred per cent. in some cases. Restaurant proprietors insist that they must pay twice as much for melons as was charged a year ago. So it goes clear down the line and the people who complain of arbitrary and excessive prices are determined to find out whether there is any justification or excuse.

In the midst of a rich agricutural region it is inconcievable that we should be paying in mid-summer winter prices for vegetables and eggs and fruits that are brought here in large quantities for sale in the open markets. There is bound to be an uprising of the consumer and he has a right to know whether the added burdens are necssary or are simply the result of greed and selfishness.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

KILLED BIG RATTLER

Officer Carlson and Mose Robinson were out on the mountain on a motor trip yesterday afternoon and ran across a huge rattlesnake on the Penfield road this side of the Moose Creek reservoir.

They stopped the machine and got out to "crush the head of the serpent". Mose said he would get a club while Carlson started after the snake with a rock. A well directed heave of the stone fixed the snake and then Carlson looked about for Mose and the promised club. He finally discovered him on a convenient pine tree twenty feet from the ground and shinning on up like a pine squirrel. When told the snake was killed Mose started to slowly slide back to earth and when Carlson asked him what he was doing up that tree Mose replied with a sheepish grin that he was going up after a dead limb about forty feet from the ground. He would have been that high up in another minute, Carlson says, and he wont lie.

Cards have been mailed to the men asking replies as to whether they will attend and these cards, while they are beginning to come back, should be mailed at once so that McCarty, who has charge of the eats, will know how many hungry men to provide for. Webb Shillingford has been selected for master of ceremonies in the entertainment line and that assures a good time for everyone who attends.

FIRST DIVISION IS COMMENDED

American Expeditionary Forces
Office of the Commander-in-Chief
France, March 26, 1919.

Maj. Gen. Edward F. McGlachlin, Jr.,
Commanding 1st Division,
American E. F.

My dear General McGlachlin:

To the officers and men of the 1st Division, I wish to express my compliments upon their excellent appearance at the inspection and review on March 14th at Montabauer. The high morale of all ranks and the condition of the artillery and transportation were what one might expect to find in a command with such a splendid fighting record. The 1st Division has the distinction of having been the first combatant unit to arrive in France and the first to enter the fighting line. From that time until the present its work has been marked by a high state of excellence and efficiency.

After serving in the Sommerviller and Ansauville Sectors the division entered the line near Montdidier, and on May 28th took Cantigny. This attack may be considered as the beginning of American offensive operations, and its success had much to do with the creation of the splendid spirit thereafter displayed by American troops. In the Aisne-Marne offensive, the division participated in some of the most desperate fighting of the entire war, and helped to insure the success of the Allied attack. During the early part of August the division moved to the Saizerais sector, and shortly after took part in the St. Mihiel operation, making a deep advance through the Rupt de Madt across the Vigneulles-St. Benoid road to Hatton-Chattel. In the Meuse-Argonne battle the division was twice thrown into the line, on October 1st, at which time it pushed forward in spite of heavy resistance, and on November 5th, when, after a march of 20 kilometers to reach the jumping-off line, it attacked the enemy and marched on Sedan.

Since the signing of the armistice the 1st Division, as a part of the ar of safeguarding the results of its Army of Occupation, has had the honvictories, and for its conduct in this work I have only praise and commendation. In view of the above record, each man in the division should feel an especial pride in its accomplishments, and I want all ranks to know of my appreciation of the achievements which stand to their credit and of the admiration in which they are held by their fellows throughout the American Expeditionary Forces.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN J. PERSHING.

We received the above commendatory statement regarding the now justly famous First Division by Gen. Pershing from First Class Private Sam Harris, of Clearfield, who is with the Army of Occupation along the Rhine.

Take Salts To Flush Kidneys

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy o have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels ofte nget irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body s urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts as made from the acd of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has ben used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kdney and bladder diseases.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BIDDLE BIRDSALL'S FRIEND.

"A good long time ago," said Daddy, "I told you the story of Biddle Birdsall. He was a cat, as you may remember, and he belonged to a little girl named Gertrude who had called him Biddle when she was very young and could not say Kitty.

"Now, Biddle Birdsall has grown older, and so has Gertrude, and while Biddle Birdsall still lives in the same house, Gertrude has to be away almost all of the time at a boarding school in the winter and at a summer camp in the summer.

"But since the time I told you the story of Biddle and Gertrude, a little cousin has come to live near the house where Biddle is.

"Strangely enough her name is Kitty, And Kitty, the little girl, and Biddle the big kitty-cat, are great, great friends.

"Kitty loved Biddle the moment she saw him. She loved his soft gray fur, his funny green eyes, and she loved to hear the tinkle of the little bells which jingled from his collar. These bells were to let the birds know that Biddle was coming, so they could get away in time, for cats move so softly when they are about to prey on little birds.

"Kitty always called to Biddle when she went to her aunt's home, where Biddle lived; but one day she thought she would walk in very quietly.

What do you think happened? Biddle knew her footsteps. He knew his friend Kitty from all the other children who came to the house where he lived, and many children would come to play there where there were all sorts of wonderful things for children.

"Yes, Biddle knew Kitty's footsteps from all the others, and he arose from his comfy couch, gave a little, funny sound, something between a tiny squeal and a purr and rushed out to meet Kitty.

"It was his little welcoming song to Kitty, and it was as though he had said: 'Oh, Kitty, I am so glad you've come. I love to sleep. I love to rest. I love to do nothing but lie near the fire in the winter, and in the sun in the spring and autumn, and in the shade when it is too broiling hot in the summer.

"'I love to eat and I love to drink milk. I care for comforts and a fine home and fine food and fine cushions.

"'But I like you better than any of these things, Kitty, and so I always get up to greet you. You don't see me doing that to anyone else, do you Kitty?'

"Of course Kitty was delighted when Biddle got up to greet her every single time she went to her aunt's house. And he never made a mistake. Never, not once, did he get up and make a mistake and give that little, curious sound of greeting to anyone else except Kitty. He could hear her step when he was way inside the house and couldn't see her at all.

"And when she didn't come up to the house in quite a good long time, he would purr to be let outside, and would get very close to the door and let everyone know just what he wanted.

"Then he would hurry down to Kitty's house and sit on her doorstep, waiting until she would come out.

"She would fondle him and pet him. He would follow her when she played and when she walked. When she was reading a story book he would sit quite near her and go to sleep, or else keep quite quiet, taking little naps, but blinking from time to time to see if Kitty was still interested in her book.

"'I don't care to read at all,' Biddle thought, 'but I do care about Kitty, and if she cares to read silly words, I am happy as long as I am by her.'

"So, tonight," continued Daddy, "I am telling you another chapter in the life of Biddle Birdsall. Perhaps some future time I will tell you still another. But I think we ought to call this chapter by this name, 'Biddle Birdsall's Friend.'"

"That would be a good name for it," said Nick.

"Indeed it would," agreed Nancy.

"To think Biddle always knew her step," said Nick. "That seems wonderful to me."

"And to think how he greeted Kitty," added Nancy.

"Yes," said Daddy, "and only for Kitty will Biddle ever make that little sound of something which to him means:

"'I am so glad to see you, Kitty.'"

THE BOLSHEVIK AND PROPAGANDA

By FRANK J. TAYLOR

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 17—"These appeals to the toiling masses the world over are not meant for foreign consumption. They are written for the Russian proletariat."

That is the reply made to the United Press correspondent in Moscow, following the criticism that appeals made to the American workman by wireless from Moscow too eloquent for American readers. The bolshevik author of the proclamation in question had asked for some constructive criticism.

The bolshevik foreign office spends its time writing propaganda to the world. The employees of the foreign office are specialists in agitation, which the foreign office spreads by wireless. Most of it never sees publication outside Russia, probably because the anti-bolshevik governments have found this material so biased that they refused to transmit it.

This does not seem to daunt the bolshevik foreign office, which, under Tchitcherin, the red-bearded funny little man who heads the department, turns out reams of appeals to the toiling masses daily. Tchitcherin harbors an ambition that he will some day provoke a world-wide revolution but realizes the odds are against him. He is convinced of the importance of keeping up these appeals, and printing them for the simple-minded Russian, who feels that he is leading the world to salvation. The Russian is led to believe that he is about three pumps ahead of the band-wagon.

The foreign office is located up a dingy flight of stairs in the back floor of the once fine hotel Metropole. When confiscations were going on, the live wires got the better carpeted rooms, but Tchitcherin is happy despite this shabby deal played on him by his colleagues as long as he can grind out eloquent propaganda.

The Russian people are fed daily through the press with these appeals and manifests and proclamations. Some of them are amusing. The correspondent obtained some of the most eloquent ones directed at Americans to bring home. The bolsheviks must have thought differently later, for the "appeals to the American proletariat" were confiscaetd at the border, along with other propaganda which the foreign office heaps on visitors.

According to "Tavarish" Tchitcherin —everyone is "tavarish," or comrade in Russia—he has asked for peace seven times during the last eight months. These have been official requests to governments.

In April, when the Bullitt mission made up of Americans, visited soviet Russia to find out conditions and learn what the bolsheviks would do, the sovietist say they repeated their peace proposals. The bolsheviks are bitterly disappointed that this mission brought no results.

According to Tchitcherin, the bolsheviks offered to assume responsibility for payment of all the debts of the old Russian government to the Entente. They agreed to make good losses sustained by Entente citizens during the revolution.

In addition, they offered trade and industrial concessions, and are willing to go even farther. They are ready to revise some of their main bolshevik platforms to get peace, if the bolshevik party can remain in power. The bolsheviks will not resign.

With rebuff the only result of his appeals, the little man with the red hair and whiskers, in an old shabby, baggy suit and a shawl around his neck, is never discouraged and continues to draft new appeals, some of them really intended for the outside world, but most of them to bolster up the courage of the Russian people.

EXPRESS SNAKE MADE HARMLESS BY THE COURIER

We thought we had a perfectly good snake story this morning when we looked over our exchange copy of the DuBois Express and we studiously clipped almost a whole column of blood curdling reading to inflict on our readers tonight. The story started out as follows:

"Armed with sufficient poison to kill several people and lying within striking distance of thousands of pedestrains who have passed up and down West Long avenue near Pete's Pullman weiner stand, a huge snake has been terrorizing the people of that section for several weeks.

But it will do so no more. Efforts to exterminate it were successful early this afternoon when Lee Goldstein, DuBois' general utility man who has had a busy day today, caught the reptile off its guard and killed it. When stretched to its full length and examined it was found to be a deadly water-moccasin, five feet three inches in length. * * *"

Then along came the morning Courier and blasted the whole story. Their version of the affair was as follows:

"After destroying about two square yards of perfectly good cement walk and consuming several hours time Lee Goldstein succeeded yesterday in digging forth a perfectly harmless garter snake that had taken up its abode under the pavement in front of the Martin millinery store. The reptile measured exactly five feet. There was a large crowd attracted to scene of the hunt, but they kept their distance the ladies especially being timid about getting very close. Had the snake been of a poisonous nature, the precautions were perfectly proper, but in view of the harmlessness of the reptile the furore aroused was somewhat amusing."

The Express has probably not recovered its proper equilibrium since our national transition from "wet" to "dry". During the month of June the Express saw a bigger and more dangerous reptile in prohibition and warned men, women and children to shun the terrors of "dry" conditions. Prohibition also proved to be a harmless reptile.

FOR BETTER ROADS

MILLIONS GOING INTO ROADS

Millions of dollars will be expended in highway construction and bridge work and maintenance by the states of the central West during the present year, according to data recently compiled by highway authorities.

Colorado has 51 miles of highways under construction at a cost of $300,000; 91 miles ready for contract to cost $360,000, and 30 miles and three bridges contemplated, to cost $350,000.

Maintenance on 4,000 miles will amount to about $500,000, while local road and bridge expenditures will amount to about $2,200,000.

Idaho has 87 miles, costing $720,000, under contract; 45 bridges, costing $425,000, ready for contract, and about $1,800,000 worth of additional work is contemplated during the season.

Iowa will expend $15,000,000 on the road system of the state, of which about $11,000,000 will be for road and bridge construction.

Missouri has 666 miles under contract, costing $1,785,000; 888 miles, costing $3,104,000, ready for contract, and about $2,000,000 additional construction contemplated. Local road and bridge expenditures in the state will amount to about $7,000,000.

Nebraska has 173 miles, costing $431,000, under contract; 145 miles, costing $550,000, ready for contract, and about 610 miles, estimated at $1,310,000, contemplated. Local road and bridge expenditures will amount to about $3,000,000.

Nevada has four miles, costing $54,666, under contract; 102 miles costing $657,412, ready for contract; 126 miles, costing $523,000, contemplated. Local expenditures on maintenance will amount to $600,000.

Oklahoma has 128 miles, including 80 bridges, costing $1,300,000, under contract. Additional construction of 165 miles, costing $2,500,000, contemplated.

These amounts will be suplemented by increased federal aid appropriations and later, it is hoped, by national construction of main trunk lines under the supervision of a federal highway commission, as provided for in the Townsend bill which will come up for consideration by the next congress.

SAVING OF IMPROVED ROADS

The report of the joint congressional committee which investigated highway economics in 1914 shows that a saving of 8 cents per ton mile can be effected in transportation costs when a road is lifted from the dirt to the durable class. This does not take into account increased real estate valuation or social advantages resulting from the improvement.

Build Roads Now.

If roads are a good thing, why not build them immediately, instead of waiting and suffering inconveniences for years to come, because it should be remembered that we are not saving any money by acting in such a manner.

Big Change in Sentiment.

People are apparently ready and willing to spend huge sums for roads where a few years ago it would have been impossible to secure even a small appropriation for this purpose.

An ingenious device is being experimented with which will do away with a great deal of the danger encountered by aviators in making a landing especially at night. It consists of a small bulb attached to a wire hanging from the aeroplane. When the bulb touches the ground an electric connection immediately switches on a small light in front of the pilot who knows then that he is within so many feet of the ground and can act accordingly and so save his machine from disaster.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

A bevy of Camp Fire girls have established themselves in a camp in a field along the river near the farm house of Hugh M. Irwin. They seem to be having a fine time and enjoying their outing as only a bunch of lassies can.

Two automobiles collided on river street yesterday about noon. Superintendent John Blake left the tannery in his car for his home and when near the home of John Dale he was met by Sam Toney of Clearfield, driving a heavy car. His car swerved to the side of the road occupied by Mr. Blake's car and struck it endwise, breaking the engine and otherwise injuring the car as to make it useless until sent to the shop for repairs. None of the occupants of either car received any injury any more than a general shaking up. Just what was the cause of the Toney car leaving its side of the track could not be learned at this writing.

Placards are posted throughout the borough asking for $2000 for the purpose of making Labor Day a grand bowling success and securing amusements for that day. Curwensville people are liberal in donating money for anything that will benefit the town and its people, and from what The Progress man could glean from committeemen this amount will soon be raised, and all arrangements completed for giving the people a good time on the first day of September.

Walter E. Montz arrived home yesterday after an absence of three years and better. When he left Curwensville he enlisted in the regular army and was assigned to the 2d Field Artillery. His battery was billited to the Philippine Islands where the young sodier spent three years, during which time he saw many peculiar people and their mode of living. His regiment was returned to France where he spent two months and a week or so ago was discharged from the service.

Ronald Dunsmore, youngest son of Alex and Mrs. Dunsmore arrived home from army service yesterday. The young man left here about two years ago and enlisted in the 18th Regiment. This regiment was split up after it reached camp and the company to which Dunsmore was attached was drafted into the 111th Regiment. The young man saw considerable service over the seas, and at one time was reported as being killed in one of the engagements, but later was found in one of the hospitals.

Blair Gates, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Gates, this place, was operated upon successfully in the Ridgway hospital yesterday. This is his third operation. He resides in Ridgway and is employed in one of the hardware stores of that young city.

Relatives were notified yesterday that Mrs. Ned Bloom was operated on in one of the Pittsburgh hospitals and passed the trying ordeal successfully. Mrs. Bloom before her marriage was Margaret Fleming, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fleming, who reside at Eastvu.

A fight between two sons of Italy took place down on the flat Sunday, the trouble arose over the pasturing of cows where they had no business to be feeding. The disturbance between the men was of such a character that it drew a crowd. Both were arrested and fined for their Sunday frivolity.

A black snake which measured something over six feet in length was killed along the trainroad which leads from the brickyard to the clay mines. His snakeship was crossing over the track and was run over by the dinkey engine.

The Fullerton garage has placed a 674-gallon gasoline tank on the outside of the sidewalk close to the building.

The foundation walls for the Gates new brick store building on Filbert street is almost completed and will be ready for the brick men by the first of the week.

Mrs. G. C. Jenkins and daughter and Miss Margaret Snyder spent a portion of yesterday among the Clearfield stores.

Mrs. Harry Gray, Misses Elizabeth and Harriet Crouch, of Tyrone, and Joseph Crouch, lately returned from army service in Paris, France, were Curwensville visitors yesterday. The Crouch's are children of the late Dr. D. O. Crouch, who was one of the pioneer physicians of Curwensville.

Jerry Hockman, residing on Anderson street, has just completed a two room and pantry addition to his home, which adds dollars to the house appearance. Carpenter Howard McClosky did the work, which is an insurance that the work was well and artistically done.

So far as the Progress man has been able to ascertain three persons have been elected to teach in the Curwensville public schools the coming term: Mr. Ralph Mays, Miss Catherine Porter, of Clearfield, and Miss Collins. Mr. W. F. Weaver has been re-elected to the janitorship of the First and Second Ward school buildings at a salary of $100 per month. Bids will be asked for the janitorship of the South Side building.

A start has been made in the right direction for giving Curwensville people, and everybody else who wants to have a good time, a chance to have it on Labor Day. More than half a hundred men have been assigned on the different committees, and that alone ought to be a sufficient guarantee for out of town people that what sports and amusements are advertised to take place will be there and ready to do their stunt to amuse and entertain. There is no reason on earth that we can see why Curwensville should not have at least one big, gala day in the year. Clearfield and DuBois and a number of smaller towns have already had their jollification, and no doubt would be willing to come to Curwensvile on Labor Day and see what is offered them to spend the day pleasantly and profitably. Let the committees get to work at once, altho there is considerable time yet before Labor Day come around. Take time by the forelock, and have everything in tip-top shape a week before the day set. Do not wait until the last week to get to work, but dig into it now, and then everybody can be assured that you mean business and that you are determined to give Curwensville visitors, as well as our own people, a glorious good time and entertain them so royally that they will want to come back again when we advertise another big day.

The swinging bridge across the river near the finishing tannery is in a most dilapidated and dangerous condition. The men, and there are quite a number of them, who use it in going to and from work, have kept this bridge in repair from money taken out of their private funds for several years, but since the bridge walk has become in such a dangerous shape that a lady cannot cross it at all, they do not feel disposed to again bear the burden of the entire expense of reflooring and other repairs. It would not be more than an act of justice for the borough authorities to go 50-50 with Eastvu people and put this much used bridge in shape for travel, without danger from receiving a broken neck or being pitched into the river while traversing it.

After leaving here at 3:18 p. m. Murray landed at Bellefonte for oil and gas and was forced to remain there over night on account of a severe hail storm. He got into the air the following morning early and headed for Atlantic City making the 240 miles in 2¾ minutes.

He landed with but two gallons of gas in his tanks. In his letter he speaks of his pleasant but expensive stay in Clearfield and returns his thanks to Chief Eadie and Officer Carlson for the many kindnesses shown him.

Pretty and Practical Bathing Suits

We are apt to think that things practical, in any line of apparel, are sure to be commonplace and unattractive and that things pretty are likely to be unpractical. But the designers of bathing suits have finely succeeded in turning out beach clothes that are both practical and pretty.
